Module 5 Explanation of my design decisions

In order to create a wireframe for my portfolio, I chose the "mockflow.com" website to start with my designing. Based on my previous planning, the first page of my portfolio ought to be my landing page, and there also has a couple of links, which could be seemed as the navigation bar actually. And then, I think it is necessary for me to insert an image into my landing page so that making my audiences have an overall impression about myself as soon as they come to my page. For the image, I want to utilize a picture, which is able to completely indicate my personal character in general. The color of it also need to be warm, because warm color can stand for my personalities in a good way. After that, I want to set six main buttons to link to each page, which are Home Page, About, Writing, Contact, Resume, Writing and Blog. More specifically, my "Home Page" will refer to some of my general statements, appropriate images, my "About" page will show my personal information, and it also results in two links, which are "Contact" and "Resume." For this section, I want to introduce myself and provide my personal contact informational at the same moment. I will post my email address, cell phone number, and even contact address. In the "Resume", I want to write something about my previous experience which is related to the job I am seeking for. For the "Writing", it is also an essential section of my portfolio, because I want to show my writing ability to my viewers according to my written blogs. From my point of view, it is not important whether or not my Home Page and the relevant pages are decorative, but it had better achieve enthrall viewers in an effective way. In addition, the simplicity is another important factor for my whole portfolio to some degree. Too much prolix information will make my audiences difficult to read, and also reduce their interests to keep learning more about me. I will keep thinking about my final portfolio by searching relevant information as well as looking more Professional Writing alum's successful portfolios, and I hope I am able to make a concise but effective portfolio ultimately.
